Blood of the Bloodgod

Effect: Unknown

Ingredients:

1. 5 vials of blood
2. a human heart
3. 5 bloodmoss

Izrem's Copy Notes:

-A simple concoction made by a simple being. I am willing to bet that the compound created is nothing more than some drink created for consumption by the bloodthirsty creatures themselves.

-The fact that the effects are "unknown", even though an orc makes it suggests that it didn't -do- anything, but the orc was still waiting for something to happen when he composed this piece.

-The lack of a seal on the book suggests this was not written by a member of the Stormweaver Orcs or the Urks of Cove. Who this orc was a part of is unknown. The fact that the orc uses the Stormweaver's god's name for this mix suggests that he had at least a little training with the Stormweavers or followed their movements from the outside.
